The Lithuanian capital city of Vilnius in Eastern Europe has set up a dedicated film office. It will provide production assistance with everything from locations and permitting through to technical support and accommodation, and will focus on the industry in Vilnius.

Jūratė Pazikaitė is the film office's Director: "Vilnius is a captivating location and the most film-friendly of cities. You will find the best professionals and most optimal working conditions here for shooting movies, television dramas and all types of audiovisual productions."

"Your work will go smoothly in Vilnius whether you are shooting a big-budget or a small-scale production with the Vilnius Film Office here to help you every step of the way."

Vilnius has hosted features involving German, Spanish and Italian talent in recent months, and the film office's resources could encourage more productions to consider the city as a filming location. There's no official filming incentive yet, but the opening of the film office is a positive step.
